Miss Margaret Norris Engaged: "Queen Of Diamonds": New Post For Noel

Charles: Successor To Lord Grey:

Discovery II; Sir David Campbell's Record: The National Birthday Trust: "History Of

The British Army"

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, Nov. 1.
SIR H. NORRIS'S DAUGHTER
It is announced to-day that Miss Margaret Audrey Norris, second daughter of Sir Henry and Lady Norris, of Sirton Lodge, Barnes Common, and Henley-on-Thames has become engaged to Mr. Derek Moorhouse Livey, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Livey of Wallasey, Cheshire.

Sir Henry Norris was formerly chairman of the Arsenal Football Club. He has taken a prominent part in public affairs in London, and from 1918 to 1922 he was Conservative M.P. for East Fulham.

ENGLAND'S "QUEEN OF DIAMONDS" LEAVES £234,000.

Mrs. Leah Primrose Blackwell, of Great Stanhope-street, W., daughter of the late Mr. Barney Barnato, once known as "England's Queen of Diamonds," who died suddenly last April, at the age of 40, left estate in England valued at £234,757.

She was left a quarter of a million by her father, "the Diamond King," with the provision that it should accumulate during her minority.

She was twice married, her second husband being Carlyle Blackwell, the film actor, whom she married in 1926. He secured a divorce shortly before she died. Her first husband was Mr. Alfred Haxton.

Among her bequests is one of £1000 a year to William Gardner for life, and then for his daughter Sybil Gardner.

FROM STOCKHOLM TO MOSCOW
A friend who has just returned from Stockholm tells me that there is great regret in that city at the impending departure of Mr. Noel Charles, the Secretary of the British Legation there.

He is going to Moscow as Acting-Counsellor in the place of Mr. Strang.

Mr. Charles has already had a variety of posts, including Brussels, Bucharest, and Tokio. He and his wife did much entertaining at their flat in the Engelbrektsgatan.

NATIONAL TRUST COUNCIL
The appointment of Mr. H. A. L. Fisher, the Warden of New College, to the vacancy on the Council of the National Trust created by the death of Lord Grey is an interesting one.

Lord Grey and his successor were cast in much the same mould. A humane scholar, a liberal philosopher, and a great kindness were common to both.

Mr. Fisher, carries to his new post valuable experience gained on such bodies as the Oxford Preservation Trust, the British Academy (of which he is president), the London Library (of which he is chairman), and the National Gallery, of which he is one of the trustees.

PEDLARS' MARKET
Demand for stall space in the Caledonian Market is continually increasing. The City Corporation, the owners, have now sanctioned the expenditure of £2,033 for lighting the covered stalls by electricity.

The covered area is also to be extended at a cost of seven hundred pounds.

This market is a survival from the old pedlars' section of the historic Bartholomew Fair, once a prominent feature of London life. As I was shown round the Royal research ship Discovery II, on the eve of her departure for the Far South, I could not help comparing her comforts with the privations on Scott's Discovery.

When I looked round Capt. Nelson's luxurious cabin, with its modern furniture, brightly-coloured curtains and bedspread, gay upholstery and electric fire, my mind's eye turned to that other Discovery.

There Capt. Scott messed with ten other officers in a small ward-room, where there was very little room for movement and the furnishings were of the barest.

On Discovery II the officers' mess is like a small edition of the lounge of a pleasure ship.

The change is all for the good. The researchers will have plenty of privations in the ordinary course of their duty.

A FINE STEEPLECHASER

Gen. Sir David Campbell, the Governor of Malta, who has banned all political meetings in the island for a month, is the only living army officer to have won the Grand National. That was in 1898.

But only three years ago, at the age of 61, he proved that he was a redoubtable steeplechaser still by winning the Military Drag Hunts Cup at Aldershot where he was G.O.C.-in-C.

A lancer himself, he was also, I believe, the only officer to be wounded by a German lance during the war.

NO VETO

The appeal for political peace, which he made when he succeeded Sir John Du Cane as Governor, seems to have been ineffectual.

The Governor's powers are limited by the fact that, though representative of the Sovereign, he has no right of veto over the legislation of the Senate and legislature.

To guide him in the tasks of administration Sir David has two councils, one of selected ministers, the other consisting of the Lt.-Governor, a law officer, and an officer from each of the fighting Services.

GETTING IN TOUCH

After the Prime Minister has decided to call a meeting, Sir Maurice Hankey, the Secretary to the Cabinet, sends out the summonses.

Then it becomes the duty of the various secretaries to get in touch with their chiefs.

men, as not infrequently happens, the Minister is difficult to get at, the most ingenious shifts have to be resorted to in order to establish contact.

Not so long ago coastguards frantically signalling from a remote part of the coast recalled one Minister, who was on a yacht.

SIR JOHN FORTESCUE

By one of those coincidences which are not altogether infrequent, Sir John Fortescue's last book, "Author and Curator," which is reviewed on another page, is published within a few hours of his death.

Sir John's monument is, of course, his "History of the British Army," a work into which he put the greater part of his life's energy.

A LABOUR OF LOVE

The great work is in thirteen volumes, of 8,000 pages and 2,810,000 words, and took thirty-one years, 1899-1930, to complete. It was a labour of love.

Sir John once said he would have made more money if he had served as a private during all these thirty-one years, but it was not the money that interested him, but his passionate devotion to soldiers.

I believe he was one of the few people whom the Queen, who saw a great deal of him when he was at Windsor Castle, called by his Christian name.

FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE BELIC

At the new headquarters of the National Birthday Trust, to be opened next week by Sir Hilton Young, I saw an interesting relic of the "Lady with the Lamp." This is an autograph letter, written some fifty years ago, in a hand which was bold and characteristic even in old age.

Florence Nightingale sent it to Florida, November 23.

Heartbroken by the death of her husband, an airman who was killed in a motor accident a fortnight ago, Mrs. Louise Turk Stanton, a member of an aristocratic family, borrowed an aeroplane with four hours supply of petrol and headed east, over the Atlantic, leaving a note saying she was not returning and was "going into space" to find out what it is all about.
Three pilots are now searching for the missing woman without much hope of finding her.—Reuter.

THE NEW BANK HEAD

The five chairmen of London's great banks may be ranked as figures in public life, if only for the great attention paid to the annual addresses which they deliver to their shareholders.

Mr. Colin Campbell, by his appointment to the chairmanship of the National Provincial Bank, comes for the first time into the public eye. But he has long been a prominent figure in the life of the City.

Mr. Campbell is an Etonian, and succeeds an Etonian in the person of Sir Harry Goschen. Eton has also provided the Westminster Bank with its chairman in the person of the Hon. R. E. Beckett.

In Mr. Campbell, a merchant banker is lifted to the position of a "Big Bank" chairman.

There will be much speculation as to whether he will combine the leadership of the bank and his chairmanship of the leading discount market institution.

MODES of the MOMENT

FASHIONS FOR BRIDES

Seen At A London Dress Show

Evening-dress fabrics are as varied as they can possibly be.

In a notable collection shown in London this week there was an exceptionally large number of evening gowns exhibited, and every one was of a different material.

Baroque—who is noted for his advance ideas—showed an enormous variety of velvets—including a new one resembling old-fashioned braid.

There were also Chinese lacquered tea-caddy satin, ottoman silk, and striped and spotted silks and satins.

One striking evening ensemble showed how the new rust effect is produced. A single taffeta frill was attached to the inside of the hem of the gown, which fitted the figure without a wrinkle.

A chocolate brown taffeta slim-fitting gown—with uneven shoulder straps, one shaped and the other straight—had a frill of box-pleated taffeta decorating its spiral fashion from the knee to the corsage.

"Humbur" Stripes

Over it was an evening coat of brown and cream velvet resembling the "humbur" stripes in the same colours as the children's sweats.

A black velvet dress with a brush braid effect had its armholes outlined with black and green ostrich feathers.

In contrast another model was very severe. It was of dull black crepe with a white waistcoat and revers, made of the same stiff fabric as that used for men's evening waistcoats. A black butterfly bow was at the collar underneath the chin.

A scarlet and silver dress had a basque of skunk fur with a funnel-shaped muff.

One of black satin sleeve had detachable glove sleeves. On her shoulders the mannequin wore a circular collar of brilliant edged with paradise "flues"—we call them fronds. The shoulder line resembled that of a Cambodian dancer.

A further striking gown resembled Turkish towelling. It was really white Angora pile velvet edged at the neck with a black velvet chain. Over it was a coat of black velvet with wide sleeves lined with the white velvet. There were many velvet ensembles.

"Green," said Mr. Val St. Cyr, who is Baroque, "is to be the foremost colour. It is being used for morning, afternoon and evening clothes."

A thickish white crepe with a raised pattern resembling a bead design had its neck and armholes outlined with green and red coque feathers.

Three Brides

There were three brides—the first in a long-trained slim gown of coarse white lace made in an off-shoulder style. Over the shoulders was a lace cap edged with white fox which was fastened with large silver buttons at the back.

The second one wore a gown of white satin made in princess fashion. The long sleeves had puffs at the elbows and the fullness at the top of the arm-stitched down flat. A circular veil of white net was decorated with a double frill of pleated net.

And the third bride had a white velvet gown—also figure-fitting—with long sleeves and a tiny puff at the elbows embroidered with seed pearls. Bolsters of white fur were placed at the top of the sleeves and seed pearl designs trimmed the shoulders of the dress and the centre of the corsage at the back.

Ivory Satin

Isobel, of Regent-street, made the wedding gown worn by Miss Elizabeth Grant for her marriage to Sir Douglas Winchester Scott. Miss Grant's gown was in satin united to the colour of old ivory. It was cut on Empire lines and embroidered with seed pearls in a cut-out design.

The long train which fell from the shoulders was of old family lace winged with silk net. The veil was edged with pearls, and fell in a misty cascade from the diadem that had a decoration of pearls and orange blossom buds.

The going-away dress was an Isobel two-piece ensemble of deep hyacinth blue georgette embroidered with cyrillid silver braid and cut on Russian lines. It was worn with a blue cloth coat that toned with it.

FASHION'S INSPIRATION

How modern fashions are reverting more and more to those of the 19th century was illustrated at a parade of original dresses dating from 1800 held at Claridge's last month. Well-known women and girls acted as mannequins to display the models from Dr. Willett Cunningham's collection.

An afternoon gown of bronze plush worn by Mrs. Drummond Hay had the lifted shoulders, known then as "kick ups," which are shown on some of the very latest frocks. Miss Patricia Villiers-Stuart "paraded" an evening gown of salmon pink bengaline, which might well be worn on a dance-floor to-day.

Lord Inverforth's daughter, Mrs. Cecil Fleming, displayed a white alpaca summer dress with what were known as "jockeys" on the shoulders.

LANE CRAWFORD LTD.

There are many useful and pretty house-gowns at the Ladies' Salon. In stockinette and all sorts of attractive wool-fabrics they are to be got in all sorts of nice colours and colour-contrasts at prices which range from $35.50 to $45.50. I saw one charming dress in carnation-red with that touch of black which is considered so smart just now. A dress of bright rust-brown was only $39.50, shades of terra-cotta, gray, beige fawn and browns of many kinds can all be got in these dresses.

Some have unusual sleeves or shoulders, or some sort of quaint and original buckle or collar. Every dress has some special distinctive feature, which makes it different from all the others.

MAIZEE

The slogan "There is always something new at Maizee" is particularly true this week for I saw something no other Hong Kong shop has yet displayed. The fascinating "Debonair Earring," instead of the customary drop or stud this Parisian novelty is exquisitely curved to follow the line of the lobe of the ear, and curves up from the diamond stud-fasten in a most alluring and beautiful manner. So charming and unusual is this dainty trinket that I advise all my women-readers to go and try a pair on.

There are many beautiful evening gowns too at Maizee's this week. A very smart black lace gown had shoulders of frilled lace and taffeta. A gown cut on classical lines was of pale flesh-pink unbrodered all over in tiny seed-pearls which made it heavy enough to hang in exquisite folds. A lovely garment! Another black dress had narrow frills of pure white and most unusual décolletage. Prices at Maizee's are so low they are simply marvellous and I advise my readers to go and see her wonderful bargains for themselves.

MODE ELEGANT

There lots of pleasing dresses in Maroquine and other similar materials at the Shanghai Tailors at tempting prices. A house dress can be got from fifteen to fifty-five dollars. An outdoor coat from forty to one hundred and twenty dollars (the more expensive models are trimmed with good fur) suits or coats and skirts can be got from forty dollars upwards.

This little shop is in Upper Ice House Street and just beyond the lamp-shade shop.

DOLLY VARDEN HAT SHOP Have you seen the charming Apron-Frocks here? I saw a sweet little example of this style in grey flannel yesterday. It is such a sensible investment for the girl with a small dress allowance since the one dress (in a neutral shade like gray or fawn) can provide endless variety by the employment of blouses of different colours for the top. Each of these dresses has a blouse to go with it but the clever girl would copy the original blouse in other colours, and knit a cap or beret to match. There are some awfully nice Catalina Hats at Dolly Vardens and it should be remembered that each "Catalina" is individual, there are no two alike.

GORDONS LTD.

There is a ten dollar window at Gordons this week where a few nice shoes in out-sizes, are being cleared off, look and see if any of them will fit you! In the ordinary window I saw some well-made coloured shoes for wear with Autumn Frocks. Olive-green, dark blue, chocolate-brown were all displayed in several different styles. Black strapped with lizard or with plain white are always nice and go with everything.

MISS NAYLOR IMPORTER OF DRESSES

Miss Naylor has unpacked another consignment of delightful American dresses, and I saw some smart and beautifully modelled afternoon dresses in heavy silks and charming maroquines. Do you realise the value of a dress of black and white in your wardrobe? If you do you must certainly go and see these in Miss Naylor's Little Salon, for they are extremely chic, and there is nothing in the world more becoming to any and every woman than a smart and up-to-date "magnificent."

WHITEAWAY LAIDLAW

There is a display of carpets at the furnishing department, and examples of modern Axminster are on view. Some of the new designs displayed go extremely well with the ultra-modern furniture which is having a vogue in Hong Kong at present. Mingled brown, orange and fawn go admirably with light-wood furniture, while old-rose with an artistic border goes with absolutely everything. Sets of drawing room rugs are useful and can be got for $80/- These sets comprise a large hearthrug, and two smaller rugs and are in several colours.

M-me D'Oby

I saw some lovely and audacious evening dresses at M-me D'Oby's the other day. For the demure, what could be more becoming than a dress of delicately tinted Angel-Skin lace, in pale blush-pink, or cream, with shoulder-caps or sleeves edged with dainty fur tinted to match? And for the daring woman (who is not afraid of being absolutely original) there are some thrilling models. White Fanne, allied to jet-black Maroquine is most striking and scarlet and snow-white maroquine makes a brilliant and daring ensemble.

THE FELIX HAT SHOP

All sorts of new things have arrived at The Felix. My eye was caught at once by the charming scarf and beret sets. One can obtain endless variety with a plain coat and skirt or Bramble-suit if one has different scarf-sets to wear with it. These sets come in plain colours and the most fascinating mixtures, and must be seen. There are also some lovely gowns at the Felix. A dress of deep red georgette with a awfully little cape of satin the same colour is a most useful investment and many of the new frocks have either capes or little coats to match. I recommend my readers to see these new dresses before. They are all snapped up.

THE JACKET

An Indispensable Garment

Black Velvet is extremely smart

It used to be important to have a silk petticoat that made a noise. Some people managed the noise without the petticoat, but there was no real happiness in a subterfuge liable to discovery at any moment. It used to be important to have a chignon—preferably one's own, but not excluding substitutes. To-day it is important to have a jacket. As fast as the back is uncovered to the rays of the sun, so the jacket grows in grace. And jackets have become indispensable, no matter what is underneath. This is not to say that they must be mere draught excluders, suitable for comfort rather than appearance and serving as disguises to unsuitable frocks. The jacket must be a feature in itself, and it must clinch the rest of the dress. Some wardrobes have jackets for every dress; others, more modest, seek to find a common factor of a jacket which shall complement many dresses. But jackets there must be; coats of many colours and many varieties.

Flimsy dresses have jackets which merely lend them additional importance. A dress with short sleeves may have a jacket with long ones, but importance is really lent by the extra complication of the jacket. A short-sleeved dress may be given stature by means of a short-sleeved jacket, a double-sleeved effect thus being obtained. Many little bolero jackets are edged with a fringe, and this decorates the dress, of which the bolero looks an integral part. Actually flimsy jackets with flimsy dresses are one garment, and taking off a jacket is little more than taking off a founce, and should be regarded in that light. In sports clothes the jacket has sometimes the role of warmth, but often it merely lends an agreeable additional line to the dress. Thus a thin, white, sleeveless dress may have a cardigan of the same material which has a small epaulet instead of a sleeve. The jacket obviously does not contribute much in the way of warmth, but it gives a more dressed look to the whole, especially when worn with a bright scarf in perhaps a red, white, and blue mixture. Gloves and a bag can be carried with this to make it look smart at any watering-place, and a white Panama hat with appropriate band and white and brown shoes finish the whole.

The really separate jacket, which is yet so closely bound up with the dress, occurs almost exclusively with evening dresses and with those dresses to which it is desired to lend, a between character. Here velvet plays a preponderating role, though other materials are often rather smarter, and these are chosen on special rather than on general terms to go with the particular stuff of the dress. The Schiaparelli model, for instance, consists of an eel-grey crepe silk canvas, belted with leather, while the jacket is in double-faced "satin" with a pattern giving a quilted effect. The leg-of-mutton sleeves will be noted combined with a shoulder-yoke which extends over the shoulder-cap. The difference of texture of the two materials gives a distinctive effect, and while the jacket has an informal appearance it yet makes the character of the dress. Velvet jackets sometimes fail to avoid the effect of a bed-jacket. This is due to the finishing of them with too many ruffings or frills. A simple design has long, narrow sleeves—or else cape sleeves and the fronts wrap over and tie. This goes well with the middle seam of many of the long skirts. A plain, shiny black satin with a plain cut velvet jacket of red, green, black, usually produces a good evening effect. On the other hand, a velvet dress may look well with a coat of dead black crepe or with a cape-coat of black and white lame.

Jackets have been cut on bolero or cardigan lines. Rather smarter are those with a fit and with something novel in the way of sleeves, or they may be like the old-fashioned fitting jacket with sleeves full or in puffs at the shoulder, thus making the waist look more compact.

A little jacket of bright Maroon looks delightful with a dark skirt of tweed or serge.

WHY DO WE DREAM?

By BERNARD HOLLANDER, M.D.

Dreams are a source of everlasting interest. They may arise from such commonplace external causes as an unusual or uncomfortable position of the body during sleep; the cold sensation produced by the uncovering of the bed-clothes; the touch of an over-heated hot-water bottle; or a sudden flash of light.

The monotonous ticking of a clock, which is soothing to some people, may produce in those not accustomed to it vivid dreams; but a far more frequent cause is a loud noise, such as the banging of a door, the fall of an article in the room above, or the shriek of a motor-horn.

The most appalling dreams, however, arise from internal discomforts, such as hunger, thirst or pain, and difficulty of breathing.

The troubled and horrid dreams which occur during sickness are frequently due to the torturing of the brain by the poisons circulating in the blood.

An overloaded stomach or the eating of indigestible food—lobster or Welsh rarebit, for instance—may produce nightmare visions of robbers, assassins or some unseen agent on the point of attacking us, which we feel absolutely powerless to resist; but, fortunately, just at the moment when the fatal blow is about to fall, the sleeper invariably awakens.

Another common cause of dreams is connected with the emotions, most often with emotion of anxiety. We are all liable to fears, especially when things do not go according to our wishes, and these fears, during incomplete sleep, may produce a sense of stifling and overpowering oppression at the chest and a conviction of helpless paralysis, affecting the speech and limbs.

Sometimes it is a feeling of guilt which makes a person wake up suddenly from a dream with violent palpitation and cold perspiration.

I once asked a man thus suffering whether perhaps he had a bad conscience, and, taken by surprise, he let out: "Is it not enough if I send a chartered accountant's ser-tificate to the income tax-assessors?" Being by nature an honest man, he was disturbed by the false statement he had made. Rogues usually sleep soundly.

Why Do We Dream?

SIGHT AND SOUND ONLY

Owing to the great rapidity of thought in dreams, we remember them imperfectly. The dreams we do remember are mostly those which occur during the period of light sleep, when we are just awakening. That is why our dreams are mostly unfinished.

Most dreams are made up of visions; that is, of moving images. Illusions of sound come next. But dreams of colour and taste are extremely rare.

One may dream of a garden and not smell the flowers; one may dream of being present at a dinner and see the dishes, yet it is rare that we taste them.

The material out of which dreams are fashioned is furnished in greater part by the previous thoughts of the dreamer, the ideas and feelings which had dominated the individual on the previous day, or through a long period of time.

Usually dreams are incoherent and irrational, because only a part of the brain gets stimulated by the external or internal sensations, whilst the rest is inactive. Thus there is no check on the absurdity of the dream.

On the other hand, there is sometimes highly instructive and ingenious reasoning. I have often solved in my sleep problems which have baffled me during the day.

The probable explanation of this is that sleep refreshes the tired mental faculties and relaxes mental tension, and is also the time when innumerable experiences lodged in the subconscious mind are more available and the memory is freed from distracting thoughts.

OUR DREAMSELVES

One point is strikingly characteristic of the dreamer's mental attitude, namely, that it is usually free from the nervousness, or lack of courage, from which he may suffer in the waking state.

That is why there is often some connection between the contents of our dreams and our dominant wishes, hopes and fears, especially such as we do not like to acknowledge to ourselves.

In dreams we are all dramatists and actors. The most stupid, equally with the most intelligent, invent plots, construct characters and frame dialogues.

It is probably owing to the symbolism and transformation of impressions and desires that we have no sense of responsibility in our dreams.

We may commit crimes, even murder, without experiencing any remorse, and we look calmly on others doing evil. This is because murder in dreams does not mean murder.

Sometimes there is an apparent connection between a dream and its fulfilment. For instance, I dreamt that a diamond in a ring on my little finger was forced from its setting.

I was happy on waking to see the precious stone in its place; but on the following day, on entering a house on removing my glove, the diamond was gone.

Whilst perfectly normal sleep is dreamless—that is to say, without memory of dreams—yet a moderate amount of dreaming, especially if the images evoked are of a pleasing or indifferent character, is quite compatible with good and refreshing slumber.

Sometimes persistent dreaming is due to the habit of indulging in sleep too long, beyond the average of seven or eight hours sufficient for a healthy man or woman; and in the lighter stages of it, when we are merely dozing, dreams are particularly apt to arise.

When there are frequent bad dreams, they are, like insomnia, a sign of bad health or emotional disorder: (such as caused by extreme worry), and should be regarded and treated as such.

BRAIDED DRESSES

Braid is in high favour again for the adornment of suits, day frocks and evening gowns. On suits the severe military type is used, on frocks it may be more ornamental and made of silk or metal threads, and on evening wraps it takes on a brocade effect in silver and gold. Rows and rows of cotton braid joined by faggot-stitching make a pretty collar and cuff set for a plain dress. Let it be a rather deep round collar, fitting close to the throat. Red-and-white braid is effective for a navy blue frock, and pink-beige for dard brown.

Gloves are prettier than ever this season.

As the eye falls on the rich profusion of delicate tones and delightful colour harmonies, as the fingers linger in fascination over their seductive softness and beauty of texture, these new season Vivella fabrics make an appeal not to be resisted. CANTON TO STAND ALOOF

Canton, November 23.

The position of the Kuomintang South West Executive Committee, representing the views of the Kuomintang leaders in the South-west, made public yesterday their telegram concerning the new movement in Fukien.

Stating "that the Kuomintang South West Executive Committee is unable to join their cause because Fukien repudiates the Kuomintang, the circular telegram says:

Messrs. Chen Ming-shu, Li Chih-shan and Hsu Chien declared on November 20 that they have severed connections with the Kuomintang and have abolished the Kuomintang flag of bright sun on a blue sky. They also declared that they have formed a workers and peasants government. That government has reached an agreement with the Japanese and internally it has formed a union with the Communists.

Outwardly the Fukien government says that it is against Chiang Kai-shek, but its policy results in giving Chiang an excuse to offset the glory of the 19th route army for suppressing the Communists and resisting Japanese aggression.

Such action is against the principles of the Kuomintang and invites foreign invasion and the spreading of Communist activities. "The harm done will be incalculable.

Our basis of political existence is the Three Principles of the People and nationalism and have decided not to join the Fukien movement—Central Press.

"Act naturally but do not act." This paradoxical advice is offered to screen aspirants by Carbine Gallone, the producer of the delightful Gaumont film, "King of the Ritz," showing at the King's Theatre to-day.

"It is only when actors forget that they are actors that they are valuable in front of a camera," says Mr. Gallone, who demands of every player in his pictures, whether they be stars or atmospheric "bits," that their reaction to any situation be natural.

"Forget the camera's presence," he admonishes. "Realise that this little thing you are to do is not a great national event; act as you would act in real life but do not act."

When making "King of the Ritz" Mr. Gallone's advice was adhered to. The sincere portrayals of Stanley Lupino, Betty Stockfeld, Hugh Wakefield, Gina Malo, and Henry Kendall being feature.

COMMUNISTS &
FIRE TRIALArrest For Perjury
Demand Refused

Berlin, November 18.

To-day's proceedings of the Reichstag fire trial dealt with the last remaining witnesses, chiefly Communists, whose statements essential to the case, dealt for the most part with technical issues of lesser interest.

The two witness Jankovski and Kasten from the cloakroom of the Reichstag building, were on duty at portal No. 2, from 8 until 2 o'clock on the day of the fire. Both declared with emphasis that Torgler did not leave the Reichstag building between those hours. They had never seen the accused van der Lubbe in the building at any time.

Witness Dittbender, at present detained at the concentration camp Sonnenburg, secretary of "Red Help" from June 1927 until February 1933, declared that it was impossible that either Dimitrov, Tanev or Popov have ever been at the Red Help office since 1927. At one time a certain Yugoslav who bore a distant resemblance to Popov used to call.

GROTHE'S ALLEGATION
Answering a question by Dimitrov, Dittbender said he had never heard that the Communist fighting detachments were ever held in a state of preparedness of any emergency.

Grothe, whose assertions yesterday created such a sensation when under cross-examination by the defending counsel, on Friday adhered to his assertion that Kempner had said quite distinctly that Torgler had been admitted in the Reichstag building and hidden there with a number of people, carrying inflammable material, while the fire itself was managed by Popov.

Dr. Sack, defending counsel for Torgler, then suggested that Grothe be arrested for perjury, but the prosecutor declined.

With this meeting, the Berlin proceedings were ended. The court will continue its labours on Thursday next in the buildings of the Supreme Court in Leipzig—Transocean.

A FOX PICTURE"THE DEVIL'S IN

A Stirring Love Story

"The Devil's In Love," the Fox film that presents Victor Jory as a full fledged star, comes to the King's Theatre next Sunday. It is the story of a young surgeon who proves his innocence of a murder by a willingness to sacrifice his own life.

The locale of the plot shifts from the seething seaport towns of Africa, across burning sands to the peaceful atmosphere of a mission. And with the changes in locale comes a corresponding change in the outlook of the principal character.

At the beginning of the story he finds himself at a Foreign Legion post, healing the wounds and the illnesses of these strange soldiers. The murder of the commanding officer throws suspicion on him and he is forced to flee to the protecting confusion of the seaport. A derelict among other derelicts he meets two women almost simultaneously—one the proprietress of a resort, the other a wholesome visitor from another country. Torn between the attraction of these two women, he wavers between sinking to greater despair and rising above his circumstances to a regained honour. It is only when a scourge attacks his old Legion post and the natives threaten its occupants with slaughter, that he reverts to his old self, clears himself of the murder charge, and chooses between the two women.

In the featured role, Victor Jory has what is by far his most important part on the screen. Loretta Young has the leading feminine role, and the supporting cast, headed by Vivienne Osborne and David Manners, include C. Henry Gordon, Herbert Mundin, Emil Chautard and J. Carroll Nash. Wilhelm Dieterle directed from the story by Harry Hervey and the screen play by Howard Estabrook.

"STORM AT DAY-BREAK"Coming to The Queen's

Colourful, different in its background and import from the usual run of romances, "Storm at Daybreak" will be shown from Sunday at the Queen's Theatre. We have had such a surfeit of American drawing room tales, that this story laid in the back country of Hungary during the World War comes as a pleasant and invigorating surprise.

The love story is a particularly fascinating one, depicting the struggle of a woman between loyalty to her husband, old enough to be her father, and love for a dashing young cavalry officer. All the ingredients of powerful drama are here: intrigue, jealousy, intense love and bitter hate. The colour-ful foreign settings, the rapid-fire action, and the thrilling climax in which a man drives himself to death over an embankment, all contribute to make this a picture which forces the spectator to sit up and take notice.

Walter Huston superbly "No little of the distinction of "Storm at Daybreak" is due to its flawless acting. Kay Francis as the woman torn between loyalty and devotion plays her role with a passionate ardor. Nils Asther does the best work of his career as the cavalry officer who is forced to turn on his best friend, and Wal-

THE CONQUERORS

Coming To The Central Theatre

"The Conquerors" will be showing at the Central Theatre on Wednesday, is the first picture, to reach the screen with an optimistic thought for the current economic problems.

Not only does the picture tackle the current depression, but it goes back to the business slumps of 1873 and graphically discloses the inevitable recovery that followed each one.

Here is a production that should revive hope in a nation that has repeatedly weathered the economic storms to return in each instance a stronger and better nation than ever before.

There is a mighty sweep to this picture that unfolds on the screen the romantic and commercial progress of the United States. It is a celluloid education within an entertainment. In an hour and a half, through the miracle of talking pictures, one is privileged to sit in an easy chair and see parading by the most significant sixty years of progress of America, and the amazing and beautiful story of Caroline, whose belief in her young husband Roger, equalled only by her belief in the future of the United States.

This belief inspired to found a bank—the first bank of Fort Allen, Nebraska. And when that bank tottered on the brink of failure, and ultimately "went down" in the panic of 1893, it was the great foresight of Caroline that made not only Roger, but others, see that this country would survive to enjoy the fruits of more glorious and prosperous years.

Richard Dix and Ann Harding and their director, William Wellman, and David O. Selznick, the executive producer of RKO-Radio who had the foresight to make this picture, have employed every resource of the motion picture industry to make this picture equal to its inspiring theme.

ter Huston, as the husband, has a difficult role which he carries to superb heights in his final stirring scene of self-sacrifice.

Phillips Holmes also gives a grand performance as a genial drunkard. The round Eugene Pallette and Louise Closser Hale are an excellent comedy pair. C. Henry Gordon is again convincingly villainous as the traitorous "Panto," and Jean Parker makes good all the flattering things said about her after her work in "Rasputin and the Empress" and "The Secret of Madame Blanche." Richard Boleslavsky's direction is of the best.

ECHOES OF 1859

55—Libel Suit Amicably Settled

(July 14, 1859)

The suit of the Queen v. Murrell, Editor of the Daily Press for libelling Mr. Bernardino de Senna Fernandes has been settled amicably out of Court. As the terms of this settlement, which will be published tomorrow, preclude our again reverting to the subject, we hasten to say a few words in explanation ere the said agreement shall come into force.

The lawyers for the prosecution demurred to our plea as being too vague. We found that we had stated too much, and that on certain points our evidence must fail. Under these circumstances the arrangement above referred to was submitted to us, and its spirit being most conciliatory we accepted it. Each party pays his own costs, and neither is to revert to the subject again in the public prints.

As many parties have told us that we were sacrificing ourselves to a clique in Macao, who would leave us in the lurch when we most required their aid, we beg leave to state that we know of no such clique, now were we instigated to attack Mr. Fernandes at the instance of any Portuguese whatever. It was purely a spontaneous act of our own, for which we hold no one accountable. And moreover we take this opportunity of recording our thanks to the various government departments of Macao for the courtesy and attention extended towards us when in pursuit of evidence.

particularly the Governor's, the Judge's, and the Procurador's offices.

Furthermore it is a mistake to suppose that our witnesses were volunteers—quite the reverse. Not one jot of evidence could we obtain except under compulsion and how the talked of commission was to be worked, we never could understand.

With these remarks our tongues are tied. We never saw so strong an illustration of the utility of a free press, as has been demonstrated in this case. Young Macao must have it, and its prohibition will dispel their amor patriae, if it does nothing worse. H.E. Governor Guimaraes had much better make a Quintus Curtius of himself and institute liberal measure and a free press.

Among the terms of the "settlement" published the next day, the following appeared "We are sorry we should have stirred up the affair at a time when we believe Mr. B. Fernandes was seeking to establish the character of a merchant in a legitimate way, and we heartily wish him success, but as we before observed we thought we were simply doing our duty towards the public in what we then wrote, and we no further regarded Mr. Fernandes in the business than as an officer of the Portuguese Government identified as we supposed with matters which we felt bound to condemn."

B.A.G.S. AND WESTERN PREFERENCE PAYMENTS

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, Nov. 1.

There will be general satisfaction at the decision of the boards of both the Buenos Aires Great Southern Railway Company, Ltd., and of the Buenos Aires Western Railway, Ltd., to pay in full both classes of Preference dividend for the whole of the year ended June 30, last. The interim dividends, due in April last, were withheld owing to exchange restrictions in Argentina, although both companies had ample cash resources to meet the payments in that country. As the dividends are in each case non-cumulative they would have been irretrievably lost to the stockholders had the directors reached a different decision at this time. An attempt has already been made to show that in all probability the payment would be fully justified by the results of the year of which it refers, but as the full reports should be to hand very shortly it is hardly worth while to re-state the position. The payment of these dividends calls for rather over £750,000 after deduction of Income-tax, so that the matter is one of considerable importance. The ability of the companies to make the payments is, of course, a direct result of the sale of the recently issued 4 per cent. Argentine Bonds.

Speaking at the Office Appliances Trades Association annual banquet in London last night, Sir Charles Higham said: "I am delighted to hear that the fact that you devoted the whole of your appropriation this year to newspaper advertising has resulted in the record attendance and sales at your recent Business Efficiency Exhibition at the White City, and so, my consistent advocacy of the Press has again been justified."

"I am of the firm opinion that if other trade organisations would follow your excellent example by advertising in the newspapers much more than they do, a great many more people would attend, and British trade would be increased."

COFFIN MADE FROM MAST

London, Nov. 1.

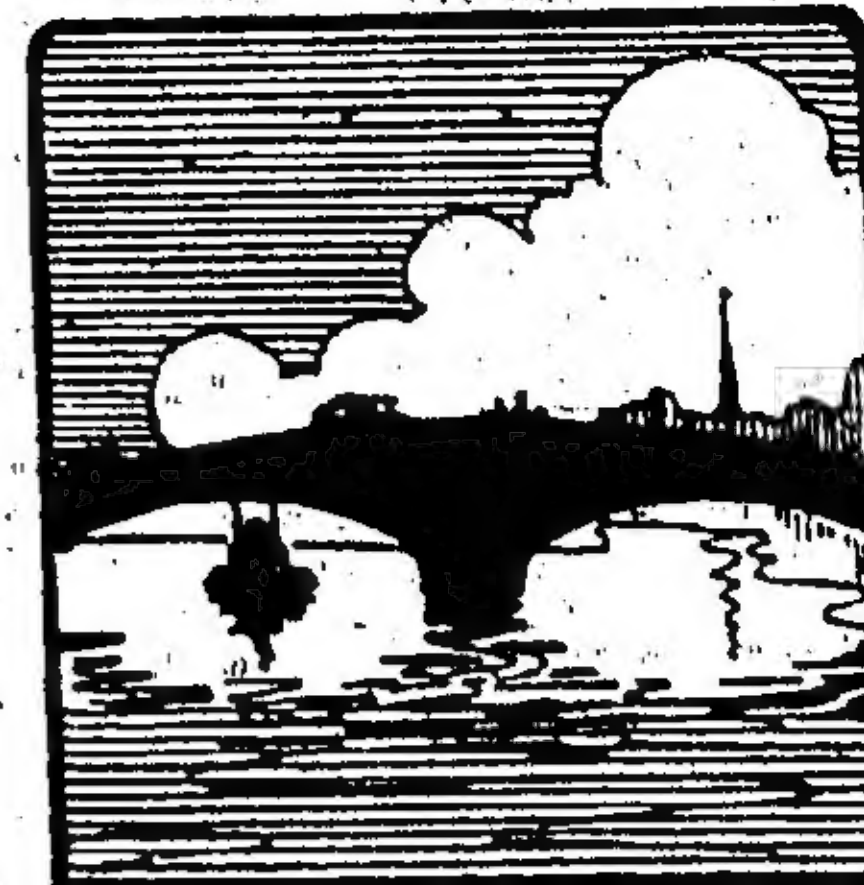

Not until Trafalgar Day, when I visited the Painted Hall at Greenwich, where a collection of personal belongings of Nelson is on view, had I ever heard that our greatest naval hero was one of the number of celebrities who have had their coffins by them for some time before their deaths.

Nelson's coffin, strange to relate, was given him as a birthday present by Captain Hplwell, of the Triumph, and the coffin was made from the main-mast of the Oceanic.

Far from resenting this gift, Nelson seems to have been greatly pleased with it, and kept it in his cabin for several months. It was in this coffin that he lay in state in Greenwich's famous Painted Hall.

The Colony had a clean bill of health for the twenty-four hours ended November 21.

LEGAL BATTLE ENDED

Appeal Decision Announced

The Full Court of appeal yesterday delivered judgment in a litigation involving $130,000 which had been occupying the time of the Judges in the Supreme Court for three years.

The appeal was against a decision in Chamber of Sir Joseph Kemp in December last year.

The appellants were Hung Huen-ching, and the respondents were Chui Tak Loong Firm, of 25, Des Voeux Road West, and Hung Yufai. Hung was added as defendant to the original action.

Mr. Eldon Potter, K. C. and Mr. F. C. Jenkin were counsel for appellant and were instructed by Mr. F. H. Loseby. Mr. H. G. Sheldon, instructed by Mr. F. E. Nash, represented the second respondent.

The appeal was dismissed.

The action was started in October, 1930, when Hung Huen-ching claimed the return of $130,000, principal and interest of a money deposit.

On November 12 a summons for judgment was taken out and Chui Tak Loong paid into court $89,000 without denying liability.

Hung Yufai began in December an action for an injunction to restrain Hung Huen-ching from taking the money out of court and this was granted but in that action judgment was eventually given for Hung the defendant, in May, 1932.

A "FORMAL" JUDGMENT

On November 19, 1932, a "formal" judgment was drawn up in respect of the "judgment" of November 28, 1930, and the added defendant took out a summons for the setting aside of the formal judgment. Two days later Hung Huen-ching applied for payment out of court of the balance of the money and on December 30 the Chief Justice, Sir Joseph Kemp gave judgment on the various summonses.

It was on this judgment that the appeal was taken.

The Chief Justice, Mr. J. R. Wood, said:—"The plaintiff-appellant here seeks in this appeal to re-instate the formal judgment filed on the 17th November, 1932, and to reverse that portion of the judgment, here appealed from which declared that the minute made by the judge and dated 28th November, 1930, was not a 'judgment' but an 'order'."

For the Appellant it has been contended before us that the minute itself constitutes a final judgment as also does the minute of the Clerk of the Court made on the same day.

With this contention I agree. The purpose of the provision contained in section 349 would seem to be to avoid the necessity of filing formal judgments and orders in every case.

The next step in the Appellant's argument is the contention that a minute prepared in proceedings under section 23 itself constitutes a judgment of the Court.

Further, it was argued that to hold such a minute not to be a judgment involves recognising the existence of a lacuna in our practice because no procedure is prescribed by the Code for converting the minute into a judgment.

It was conceded that the language of section 23 empowers the Court merely to allow a Plaintiff to proceed to judgment and execution and that the general practice of the Court is to make an order in terms of the summons, which embodies the words of the section, and also that the use of the word "judgment" in the minute under consideration is immaterial. If the section does not authorise the judge to give judgment in the proceedings, the judge cannot assume the power to give a judgment; and his decision must be interpreted as a proceeding within the limits of the section. It was contended, however, that section 23 of the Code, read together with section 349, intends judgment should be given forthwith upon a summons without necessity for further process. On this view the minute of the 28th November, 1930, was a judgment and the formal judgment filed later was properly dated, was properly intitled, and set out the proper sum to be recovered under it.

Again, it was admitted for the Appellant that the distinction between an order and a judgment does not rest upon the view taken as to the title of the person in whose favour a judgment is given or an order is made to issue execution. And it was submitted, that where leave to proceed to judgment and execution is granted under section 23 and a minute has been duly recorded, a judgment (though not necessarily a final judgment) then comes into existence and with it, a title to execution.

Mr. Potter, for the Appellant, further submitted that the lacuna in procedure noticed above is uncureable. Since the amendment of section 4 of the Code in 1911 no supplemental procedure can be adopted from the English Rules of Practice. Before that amendment these Rules could be used in general to fill any gap found to exist in our Code. The amendment provided that where any subject dealt with in the English Rules of Practice is provided for wholly or in part in the Code, the English Rules shall be deemed not to be in force in the Court. Before this amendment it had been not unusual to make a wide use of the English Rules of Practice. At the present time those rules may only be applied in matters upon which the Code of Civil Procedure is wholly silent. On the matters raised in this appeal, namely, the creation and record of the judgments and orders of the Court, the Code makes full provision in Chapter XIV, sections 345 to 358. It cannot, therefore, be suggested that the procedure for entering judgments, pursuant to the summary procedure on specially endorsed writs, can be here in force to make good a lack of directions at this point in the Code. The relevant sections must therefore be read together and it is not permitted to go outside them. The Court must favour the interpretation of section 23 which gets rid of the lacuna.

In the argument for the Appellant it has been pointed out that when once judgment has been given or an order made, the filing of a formal judgment or order, without a direction of the Court, is an unnecessary step.

The argument for the Respondents in support of the judgment appealed from, accepted almost entirely as correct, the construction of the Code for which the Appellant contended. His one anxiety seemed to be that the minute of the 28th November, 1930, should be formally described as an order not as a judgment. Apart from this the Respondents' Counsel was content that the order so made should be considered effective from that date and that execution should flow from it.

It was a submission adopted in common that the filing of the formal judgment was at most merely declaratory and that its reinstatement here would have no result in the relations between the parties. Nevertheless, the formal judgment should have been set aside not because it was defective in detail, but because the Plaintiff had obtained an order merely to which the code gave an effect equivalent to that of a judgment. The Chief Justice in the Court below had declared the minute to be an order and the appeal against his decision on this point should not succeed.

For myself I am unable to accept the construction on which the learned Counsel on both sides appear to be agreed. The learned Chief Justice seems to me to have indicated the correct view.

The decision given below seems to me to be right. The minute of the 28th November, 1930 was an order. The formal judgment was irregular for the three reasons already given, namely, its wrong date, its wrong title, and its wrong statement of the amount of the judgment debt still owing on the date of filing.

In the judgment, appealed from, the formal judgment was further found to be bad because it did not include a statement of the stay of execution which formed part of the order on which it was founded. With this reason, with great respect to the learned Chief Justice, I do not find myself in agreement. It seems to me that a stay of execution is in itself an order and operates apart from the judgment. The stay would appear to run from the date of filing.

With reference therefore to the matters argued for the Appellant on this appeal I find that he fails so far, dismissed with costs.

In the Court below, the learned Chief Justice directed that an issue should be prepared and tried. It appears that this direction is no longer of use to either party and in my opinion this order should be set aside.

As regards the Appellant's application for the payment out of Court, to himself of money paid in to the credit of this action, this application has not been persisted in.

The Pseudo Judge Mr. R. E. Lindell, concurred.

NO MORATORIUM NECESSARY

Dr. Kotewall On Chinese Banks Crisis

In connection with the run on the Chinese banks, the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall, C.M.G., gave an interview to the Chinese Press yesterday, and in view of the importance of the matter, he kindly sent us a translation of it which we give below:—

"My Chinese colleagues and I have been watching the present situation very carefully, and have been in touch with the Government. This morning, as representing my Chinese colleagues and myself, I had an interview with His Excellency the Governor, the Hon. Colonial Secretary, the Hon. Secretary for Chinese Affairs and the Hon. Colonial Treasurer being also present. His Excellency informed me that he had been giving close attention to this important matter; that he had consulted leading banking interests; and that in view of their readiness to render all the assistance that lies in their power, he does not at present see any necessity for special action by Government.

"I have been giving this matter most careful and earnest consideration, and venture to share this view. There is plenty of money in the Colony, and I am sure that it will be available for those who have adequate securities, scribe to this view."

"Keep Their Head."

Asked in regard to the attitude of the leading British banks as he knew it, Dr. Kotewall said that he was sure that the managers of those banks were fully alive to the situation, and had willingly given and would give all the help in their power to applicants able to furnish reasonable security.

Our representative then sought Dr. Kotewall's view on the subject of a moratorium. Dr. Kotewall replied:—"I am emphatically of the opinion which is shared by my colleagues that in the present circumstances a moratorium, even a partial one, would be a great mistake." Dr. Kotewall advised the public to keep their head, and assured them that his colleagues and he would continue to watch the situation with unrelaxed vigilance, and to keep in close touch with the Government.

GREEN ISLAND SCANDAL

Loss Of Dynamite In Government Depot

Although it has been officially stated that Messrs. Jardine Matheson and Shewan Tomes are the most heavily victimised by the Green Island Dynamite Scandal, the Harbour Master, Comdr. J. B. Newill, said in an interview with a "Daily Press" representative yesterday that the extent of the loss would not be known until the investigations, which are now being carried out, are completed.

Commander Newill added that as far as he knew, none of the other stocks have been tampered with, but that again is not definite, as a check had to be made of over 600 cases of goods stored in the depot, and this would necessarily entail a certain amount of work.

Mr. Brackenbridge of Messrs. Jardine's said that they were over a hundred cases of dynamite shot as a result of this latest piece of slackness while Messrs. Shewan Tomes stated that in addition to 304 cases of dynamite, there were also 19 cases of detonators missing from their stock.

We were informed that the discovery of the loss was made on Monday, when a delivery order issued by Messrs. Shewan Tomes was presented at the Depot in Green Island. It is alleged that Mr. Julian issued the 10 cases of dynamite from the Jardine's stock and as Shewan Tomes had still a large number of cases in hand, they made inquiries as to why the goods were not issued from their lot. The loss was then discovered but it is alleged that Mr. Julian had left by this time.

Commander Newill informed our representative that a letter had been left behind by Mr. Angel Julian and this is in the hands of the Police, who are reluctant to divulge the contents.

The stocks in the depot have now been checked, with the result that a shortage of 320 cases of dynamite and 23 cases of detonators has been disclosed. The total value is about $28,000.

Mr. W. H. Bailey, who was formerly a gunner at Stonecutters in charge of magazines, has been temporarily appointed successor to Mr. Angel Julian, who is reported missing from the depot at Green Island. Mr. Bailey was formerly employed at the Government Civil Hospital.

MANSLAUGHTER CASE ENDS

Unanimous Verdict of "Not Guilty"

Both the men who were charged before the Chief Justice at the Criminal Session with the manslaughter of a man who is described as a thief, were discharged yesterday, following a unanimous verdict of "Not Guilty" from the jury.

It will be remembered that it was alleged against the accused men that they were two of a number of men who assaulted an escaping thief, who had stolen some tools from a field, and that the violent nature of the assault led to the man's death. The Crown called a man who had claimed to be an eye witness of the assault.

Mr. J. A. Fraser, Assistant Attorney General, prosecuted and the defence was conducted by Mr. Hin-shing Lo.

Yesterday Mr. Lo called evidence in the course of which it was stated that the man who claimed to be an eye-witness of the assault had attempted to borrow money from the wife of the first accused and having failed, bore a grudge against him.

In the course of his address to the jury, Mr. Lo declared that the issues for them to decide were two, namely, that the two accused were present at the scene of the assault, and secondly that the two crown witnesses (who claimed to have been the assault) were speaking the truth. Mr. Lo contended that the real issue before the jury was whether the deceased, whose death was caused by a ruptured spleen, met his death as a result of the assault. He pointed out that the spleen of the dead man was very much enlarged, according to the medical evidence and it might well be that he would have died of that in any case.

After Mr. Fraser had addressed the jury, the judge said that there were three possibilities as to the cause of death. The first was the possibility that the spleen was broken in the course of the assault. The second was that the injury might have been received when the man was running away and fell into a ditch and the third was that something occurred after the man had been found by the Police lying in the street. With regard to the third possibility, his Lordship said that he very carefully watched the evidence of Constable 0334 and was satisfied that the man had nothing on his conscience, as to the death of the deceased. With regard to the prisoners, his Lordship said that there was no suggestion in the conduct (as revealed by the evidence) which showed that they had a sense of guilt in their minds. The jury retired for ten minutes and brought in a unanimous verdict of not guilty.

NO ONE TO BLAME

Sequel To Recent Lorry Fatality

The inquiry with the circumstances surrounding the deaths of Chan Yin and Wing Kan who were killed as the result of a motor lorry smash in Shauiwan on October 23, last, was concluded before Mr. E. W. Hamilton at Central Magistracy yesterday when a verdict of accidental death was returned by the jury which comprised Messrs. Paine (foreman), Lopes and Xavier.

The jury added a rider to the effect that section 121 of the traffic regulations should be made more stringent in its wording, enabling the Police not to allow any heavy vehicles to be used on the road until they had assured themselves as far as is possible that they are not a danger to the public or the occupants.

The only witness called yesterday was Sergeant Robert Molnes who stated that he examined the lorry following the accident and found that one of the bolts that went through the spring was broken and that the vehicle had apparently been in this condition for some time. This break he said might have been caused by one of the U bolts that connect the spring to the chassis being loose and this would, in his opinion, affect the brakes. He claimed that with the cable type of braking used on the lorry, play in the axle would not hinder sudden stopping but when the car was being pulled up gradually the prolonged strain might tend to shift the axle forward, thus lessening the efficiency. In his opinion no one was to blame for the accident.

METROPOLITAN LAND CO., LTD.

Fourth Annual Gen. Meeting

Extracts from the Minutes of the Fourth Annual General Meeting of Shareholders held at the offices of the Company, 21 Jinkee Road, Shanghai, on Thursday, November 9th, 1933, at 4.30 p.m.

Present: Messrs. F. R. Smith (Chairman), R. Calder-Marshall C.B.E., M. Reader Harris, A. McLure, O. Okamoto, E. Sigaut, C. V. Starr, Yuseo Yeo (Directors), and Shareholders representing in all 154,102 shares.

The Acting Secretary, having read the Notice convening the Meeting and the Auditors' Report, the Chairman said:

The net profit, amounting to $190,730.91, after allowance for depreciation, General Managers' commission and Building Reserve is considered quite satisfactory by your Directors and General Managers, bearing in mind the extraordinarily difficult period covered by the accounts. Business conditions during the past twelve months have been just as difficult as the twelve previous months and we feel that the liquidated profit shown in the accounts before you emphasizes the inherent strength of our organization.

We are particularly pleased at the increase in rents and fees earned on Trusteeships. This section of our business is most desirable in that it forms a steady reliable income, especially during periods when buying and selling operations are limited and the negotiation of mortgages difficult. It is the aim of your Directors and General Managers to develop this Company to a position where the income from Rents and Trusteeships will be sufficient to cover the overhead of the Company and to provide the shareholders with a reasonable return on their investment.

We desire to mention that a considerable reduction has been made in overhead expenses and we anticipate operating on a proportionately lower figure during 1934.

Purchases and Sales

Buying and selling of Real Estate was comparatively inactive during the first six months of our financial year. There was a slight improvement during the last six months and we hope that it may be a definite sign of a gradual return to normal trading conditions. Our gross turnover for the year was better than the previous period but still small in comparison with a normal trading year.

Estates: This section of your business continues to increase in a gratifying manner. We purchased, during the year, the registration control of a fairly large number of estates and this item is shown in the accounts as "Goodwill of Title Deed Investment." One of the recommendations of your Directors and General Managers to-day is that this investment be completely written off in a manner similar to that in which we dealt with the original goodwill purchase of Messrs. Davies and Brooke.

Subject to your approval of our recommendations the General Reserve this year will amount to $425,000.00 and the Building Reserve to $30,000.00.

Dividend: In keeping with a policy of conservative distribution while maintaining the strength of the Company's resources, the Directors recommend a dividend of 70.60 per share which, at the prevailing rate of 7/15, gives an equivalent distribution of a proportionately Chinese Standard $0.84 (eighty-four cents) per share.

LOCAL ESTATES

Recent Tragedy Recalled

Mr. George Henry Payne, Inspector of Shipwrights, of 5, Lock Road, who died under tragic circumstances at Naval Hospital on November 15, left local estate valued at $9,700. Probate of the will has been granted to the widow, Mrs. Ethel Grace Payne. It will be recalled that Mr. Payne was playing tennis against Mr. Hambly in the Naval Dockyard on the afternoon of 15th inst. when, after the second point in the second game Mr. Payne complained of not feeling well and leaving the court sat upon a bench nearby. He suddenly collapsed and upon aid being summoned was taken to the surgery where, all attempts to resuscitate him proved fruitless.

Local estate valued at $20,000 was left by Pau Nam, merchant, of 24, Stubbs Road, who died on April 24. Probate of the will has been granted to Yu Sai-ling, merchant.

Leung Hong-lai, of Wang Chui Ki village, Nam Hoi District, died on January 9 leaving local estate valued at $14,800. Letters of administration have been granted to Leung Hong-ye.

MANIFESTO TO FOREIGN POWERS

Issued By People's Revolutionary Government

OBJECTIONS TO CHIANG'S PASSIVE POLICY

We publish the following manifesto alleged to have been issued by Mr. Eugene Chen, Minister for Foreign Affairs of the 'People's Revolutionary Government' at Foochow, with certain caution, and as the message was received at a late hour last night, we cannot accept any responsibility regarding its veracity as we were unable to confirm its contents.

Foochow, November 23.
The following manifesto to the Foreign Powers has been issued by the People's Revolutionary Government consisting, inter alia, all the leading commanders of the Nineteenth Route Army.
Mr. Eugene Chen, Minister for Foreign Affairs, has instructed that copies be delivered to members of the local Consular Body.
We have to announce the establishment of the 'People's Revolutionary Government of the Republic of China' formed under pressure of the Nation's demand for a new leadership in the direction and conduct of the struggle for national independence which the ruling clique in Nanking, now in agreement with Japanese Imperialism, has put in imminent jeopardy.

To the Chinese People and to the civilized world at large, the purpose of Japan has been plain for more than two years. What the Manchus did in the seventeenth century when the title to an Empire could be rooted in conquest and plunder, Japan also plans to compass in China in a world-environment which politically and economically determined by ideas deriving from the French Revolution and by forces born of the Machine Age.

BOUND BY FACTS

China is not merely a portion of the Far East or a region in 'East-Asia' but, economically and in certain other respects, she is a massive and integral part of the civilized world of which, for instance, America, Britain, France are also integral parts. And to this same world, China is also bound by great pacts of nations; namely, the Nine-Power Treaty by which America, Britain, France and the other signatories guarantee the independence and integrity of China including, necessarily, Manchuria and Jehol; the Covenant of the League of Nations by which Britain, France, Italy and other member-states undertake to respect and preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all Members of the League; and the Kellogg-Briand Peace Pact which, because it outlaws war as a solution of international controversies and as an instrument of national policy, requires America, Britain, France, Soviet Russia and the other signatory-powers to treat Japan's war-operations in Manchuria and Jehol as international crimes and delinquencies and her naval activities in Shanghai as tantamount to piracy on the high seas.

The Chinese People, besides insisting that Chiang Kai-shek as the real head of the Nanking Government should base an active diplomacy on the foregoing treaties, have persistently demanded the enforcement of a policy of effective resistance to Japanese aggression on the obvious ground that a nation that does not resist when attacked is not only a fit object of foreign conquest but, by abject non-resistance, it provokes and encourages its own subjugation. But it is well-known that Chiang Kai-shek and his Nanking clique have never complied with this demand of the Nation, because cowardice and a purely personal policy inspire in him the fear that real resistance to the Japanese may result in the enfeeblement of the military forces which sustain him in power and centre in his hands control of the machinery of the Kuomintang and of the organs of state and government.

POLICY ABANDONED

For this reason Chiang Kai-shek readily accepted, at the beginning of the Japanese invasion, the advice of T. V. Soong's sundry foreign advisers to the effect that China should rely on the League of Nations to secure a satisfactory settlement of the Manchurian incident. He and they naively believed that the League of Nations could impose on Japan a solution of the question in terms of a Japanese withdrawal to the area of the so-called South Manchuria Railway zone. When Chiang and his hopeful diplomats realized that neither Britain nor France was prepared to fight a covenant-breaking state which Chiang Kai-shek himself was not prepared even to resist (since his armies, at any cost, are to be kept intact for internal use), he abandoned China's League policy and personally telegraphed the Chinese delegates at Geneva to refrain from further action under the League Covenant, at the same time instructing Huang Fu to conclude the Tangku armistice with its secret arrangement for the 'invisible' liquidation of the Manchuria question in the sense exacted by Japan.

To complete his new orientation of policy, Chiang Kai-shek has found it necessary to dismiss his brother-in-law, T. V. Soong; and he is now fully committed to a pro-Japanese policy which is destined, unless frustrated, to drag in the whole of China within the orbit of the predatory system which has already strangled Korea and is fast closing its grip on Manchuria and Jehol.

The Chinese People would deserve to be Japanese slaves should they further suffer Chiang Kai-shek and his Government to continue in power and carry out their policy of betrayal and treason against the Nation. But it is not China alone that is menaced by Chiang Kai-shek's pro-Japanese policy. The modern system of nations itself would be endangered, militarily and economically, were the ruling clique in Nanking allowed to surrender the vast material resources and manpower of China to Japanese domination and control. This is a possibility that is neither fantastic nor remote, since there actually exists a Chinese gang in authority that is prepared, nor seasons of sinister statecraft, to put through such a deal with the Japanese.

CHINA'S RIGHT

In arraigning this pro-Japanese group of Chinese, we must not be understood to belong to the alternative group, the so-called pro-American and League group whose chief aim appears to be the enlistment of American and European assistance to enable it to obtain power and maintain its ascendancy in the government of China. While China has a right to look to America and the other signatory-powers of the Nine-Power Treaty and of the Peace Pact as well as to the League of Nations to implement their treaty-obligations and also to realize the signal menace to their vital interests involved in Chiang Kai-shek's statecraft, we hold that the policy of the pro-American-League group is based on dangerous doctrine in that it is calculated to found political power in China on foreign intervention or, at any rate, on non-national foundation. Without impugning American good faith or the motives inspiring American statesmanship regarding China, it is necessary to emphasize that the objective result of the policy of the pro-American-League group, would be the subjugation of China to a system of international control which, it cannot be doubted, would hardly be less obnoxious and hazardous than the implications of Chiang Kai-shek's pro-Japanese policy.

WORLD WAR

Opposed to the perilous policies of these two rival groups, we affirm that real power in China must rest on national foundation and that the leadership of the new movement, which finds its instrument of rule in the People's Revolutionary Government, is pro-Chinese. We rely on the broad masses of the Nation for support and for the power and means to reconstruct and organize a new life of the Chinese People on the basis of a nationalism holding fast to the principle of democratic freedom and working, economically and otherwise, within the framework of the co-operative world which modern economic and social forces are creating in spite of certain reactionary attempts to re-establish the doctrine of autocracy in the modern government of nations.

We declare finally that the removal of Chiang Kai-shek from power is not only, necessary in the interests of the independence and salvation of China but also in the strategic and economic interests of the world as a whole, including even Japan viewed as a Power whose national existence would be at stake in a world-war that must, inevitably take place, with the assistance of Chiang Kai-shek Japanese Imperialism should achieve the entire domination and control of China's material resources and man-power. And in order to further, on this view, a cause that is international in its range and appeal, we have to call upon the Foreign Powers to refrain from assisting Chiang Kai-shek's Government at Nanking with any loan or loans, whether in the form of money or goods or arms and ammunition, and to declare that should any such loan or loans be hereafter concluded, the Chinese People and their Revolutionary Government would categorically repudiate the same.—Affiliated Press.

EXPULSION FROM KUOMINTANG

Nanking, November 23.
This morning's meeting of the Central Executive Committee decided to expel from the Kuomintang, Chen Min Chu, Li Chi Shen and Eugene Chen while no steps are taken against the others involved in the Fukien rebellion pending further investigation.

Another important decision reached was the convocation of an Emergency Plenary Session of the Central Executive Control Committee on December 20, in Nanking.

It is gathered that efforts will be made to induce Hu Han Min, Chen Chi-Tang, Hsiao Ju Chen, Chow Yu, Li Tsung Jen, Tang Shao Yi and other south-west leaders to come to Nanking to jointly discuss the country's pressing problems.—Reuter.

NO CANTON SUPPORT

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, Nov. 23.
Having stated that Canton will not support Fukien because it throws off the Kuomintang, members of the Kuomintang South-west Executive Committee, the highest Party organ in South China, are now turning their attention to Kwangsi in the hope that Generals Li Chung Jen and Pai Tsung Hai will share the same view.

High officials here made repeated statements that Kwangsi and Kwangtung are in accord with regard to the Fukien situation. This is intended to pacify the public, because in fact the Kwangsi generals have not yet openly declared their stand. Two representatives were sent to Nanning, Kwangsi to urge the return of General Li, who is a member of the South-west Political Council.

Kwangtung will be in a safe position if Kwangsi is friendly. On the other hand, the Fukien Government claims that Kwangsi has exposed its cause with General Li Chai Hsin as Kwangsi's representative. The fact that General Li Chung Jen had left Canton for Kwangsi before the Fukien coup arose is regarded as significant.

The military authorities will co-operate with the Nanking troops with regard to Fukien. In the event of an open clash with the 19th Route Army, the Cantonese troops will make a last stand at Wai Chow on the East River, which is garrisoned by the 4th Independent Division. Swatow is vulnerable and cannot be defended.

The city is peaceful, although a feeling of uncertainty prevails in all circles.

REBEL CHIEF'S DENOUNCED

Nanking, November 23.
The morning papers here published Chiang Kai-shek's lengthy manifesto to the rank and file of the Nineteenth Route Army, denouncing the Fukien rebel chiefs and urging the Army to remain loyal to the Government and maintain the original positions against communist bandits.—Reuter.

One case of diphtheria and two cases of enteric have been reported in the Colony for the twenty-four hours ended Nov. 22.

SHARP WARNING

To Lift Import On British Goods

London, November 23.
It is understood that Britain are demanding the French withdrawal of the 15 per cent. surtax, 6 per cent. landing tax on British goods otherwise Britain will retaliate with an impost of 21 per cent. on French goods. This intimation was handed to Ambassador Corbin in London by Mr. Runciman.
It is understood also that M. Flandin, an ex-Minister of Finance and the leader of the deputation of French Deputies now visiting Britain saw Sir John Simon in that connection last night.—Reuter.

DEATH PREFER-
RED TO TRIAL

Vanderlubbe's
Outburst in Court

Leipzig, November 23.
There was a sensation in the Reichstag Fire Trial this morning when Vanderlubbe, in a long and coherent speech, demanded that the trial be speedily concluded and declared that the other accused had nothing to do with it.
He declared that "I alone fired the Reichstag. I want to have a sentence of twenty years' penal servitude or death, but I cannot stand this trial any longer.—Reuter.

BANK CONTROL
IN GERMANY

Experts In Berlin
Disagree

Berlin, November 22.
It has proved impossible to secure an agreement on the future of the German banking system. The committee of experts which has been investigating the problems for some time past has decided against all round nationalization, as was proposed by the Hitler regime.

The representatives of the big banks, supported by some of the more important private bankers, unanimously insisted upon complete freedom in their operations, but the others were in favour of some kind of State control.

Dr. Schacht, the President of the Reichsbank, expressed the opinion that banking policy should not be absolutely independent of State policy.—Reuter.

MOVEMENT UNSUITABLE TO CONDITIONS

Canton, November 23.
The provincial and city Kuomintang called a meeting yesterday and more than three hundred representatives from different societies, guilds and peoples' organs were present.

Mr. Wong Lin-shu, a committee member of the provincial Kuomintang made clear the Southwest attitude toward the movement. Mr. Wong assured the public that Fukien's movement is not suitable for Chinese conditions especially in this national critical condition. Kwangtung is perfectly safe and he hoped that all the people should support to government to adjust the financial question.

Other speakers at the meeting were Mr. Hsu Kwan-ho and Lu Yiu-kong of the city Kuomintang, they briefly stated that the only way to save China is through reconstruction and adherence to the 'three principles' laid down by Dr. Sun Yat-sen.

All representatives agreed to the above idea and all promised to support the government in the present situation.—Central Press.

RACING SENSATION

Lord Derby Severs
Connections With Trainer

London, Nov. 23.
A first-class sensation was caused in racing circles by the announcement that Lord Derby is severing his connection with his trainer, the Hon. George Lambton who has been associated with Lord Derby and his father for nearly forty years. Mr. Lambton ceases his appointment on December 31, and his successor is Colledge Leader one of a famous family of training brothers. Lord Derby, when interviewed by Reuter said "there was no question of trouble between Lambton and myself; the reason why I came to the decision was that I considered the control of a large stable was putting too great a strain on Lambton's health."—Reuter.

TWO IMPORTANT POINTS

In The Rubber
Conference

Batavia, November 23.
The Rubber Conference has been postponed till November 24, owing to some necessary preparations, including the study of provisional plans from Holland, which were only distributed on November 22. The Conference brings substantially two leads to the foreground, firstly, the allotment to every grower a certain percentage of the recent productive capacity, and as a control measure, rubber must be sent to obligatory markets during some months; secondly, the levying of export duties according to value with sliding scales.
The total export quota of the Dutch East Indies must be regulated internationally after which it will be distributed over the provinces.—Reuter.

Batavia, November 23.
Representatives attending the Rubber Conference on November 24, are reported to hold the opinion that the introduction of Government control is not nowadays impracticable nowadays.—Reuter.

ATTACK ON ROOSEVELT'S MONETARY POLICY

James Warburg Denounces
Inflation

AMERICA READY FOR SLOW PROGRESS

Philadelphia, November 23.

Mr. Warburg's denunciation of the President's monetary policy surprised his hearers in the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences. Referring to President Roosevelt's message to the World Economic Conference which was Warburg's duty to interpret, he decided it was a task he was unable to carry out, therefore, he wrote to Mr. Cordell Hull resigning his position as Financial Adviser, but kept the resignation as a secret as he hoped to convince the President of the mistake of his continuance of a policy of monetary uncertainty and experimentation.

Expressing admiration for President Roosevelt, Mr. Warburg pointed out that some misconception seemed to becloud President Roosevelt's purpose and disregard for the accumulated experience of centuries has been manifested by all too many of his advisors. If human intelligence and integrity was unable hitherto to manage the simple gold standard, he did not believe it would be able to cope with the vastly more complicated mechanism which managed the commodity of the dollar. No system of national currency can function satisfactorily if not adopted by the majority of other important nations. Championing the modernised and improved gold standard, Mr. Warburg stated that there was ample evidence that the majority of the nations in the World Economic Conference were willing and anxious to re-establish such a standard.

A rise in price level alone is not proper unless it was accompanied by a rise in incomes by increasing the amount of business in expectation of a reasonable profit.

Philadelphia, November 23.

A vigorous attack on President Roosevelt's Monetary Policy was made in an address by James Warburg, Financial Adviser to the American Delegation to the World Economic Conference who was formerly regarded a member of the Brain Trust. Mr. Warburg denounced controlled inflation because there was no such thing, and even if there was, it was because it was not controlled, nor could there be such a thing as a dollar of constant purchasing power.

It is up to the latent majority to tell President Roosevelt that the American people are ready to face whatever might be in a slow and orderly process of recovery.—Reuter.

Washington, Nov. 22.
The dramatic resignation of Professor Sprague is still the liveliest topic in financial circles. Wall Street's very plain spoken views on the resignation are not, however, likely to have any effect on the Government's gold policy. That President Roosevelt intends to go on is borne out by reports that the President has definitely placed Mr. Henry Morgenthau in charge of the programme.

EXCHANGE INTERVENTION
Leading commodities fluctuated very narrowly on the Stock Exchange, there being no decided trend either up or down.

The foreign exchange flight from the dollar which began in view of Sprague's resignation has been temporarily halted and trading generally was very quiet. The exchange brokers are of opinion that the Government intervened to steady the market.

MINOR SENSATION
EXCHANGE INTERVENTION

A minor sensation has been caused by the issue of a statement by Mr. W. E. Woodin, Secretary of the Treasury, criticising Professor Sprague's suggestion that the Treasury must borrow two billion dollars from the people on bad security.
Mr. Woodin says that the suggestion that Government funds can and will be bad security reflects not only on the wealth and integrity of the country, but impeaches Professor Sprague's own commonsense and competence as a student of finance.

SUPPORT FOR BONDS

It was officially revealed by Mr. Morgenthau this evening that the Treasury has been supporting the market in United States Government bonds, the prices of which have been depreciating rapidly recently.

Funds turned over to the Treasury for investment by Government agencies, including postal savings, farm credits, debt sinking funds and federal deposit insurances, are being used for the purchase by the Government.

The sum available is not disclosed, and the amount invested will be announced weekly.—Reuter.

MORGENTHAU GIVE WAY

Washington, Nov. 22.
The strong protests by the newspapers against the Treasury gag have resulted in new orders by Mr. Morgenthau modifying his original press ban.
The new instructions allow Treasury officials to give information without reference to himself or his assistants.—Reuter.

Notes From Everywhere

WAS WORTH THE TROUBLE.—Maurice Wellock, who has been appointed trainer to Halifax, might never have studied the subject had he not once been injured while playing at Blackpool. His injury stimulated his interest in anatomy and massage, and now he is a fully qualified masseur.

VERSATILITY.—Kilburn will not last season's regular left-back for Coventry, has played of outside-left, left-half, and his usual position of left-back for Coventry Res. in the last three weeks. In the summer Wilnot plays with Warwickshire County Cricket Club—a veritable "Jack of all trades."

A GOOD START.—Bradford City stole a march on several of their rivals when they signed Harry Adamson, a centre-forward from Upton Colliery, and George Dobson, an outside-left, who has had experience with Huddersfield and Southport. Adamson scored two goals in his debut as a City player during the week.

SOMEWHERE A VOICE.—Exactly why a section of the crowd at Meadow Lane, Nottingham, enjoys "baiting" Fenner is a mystery, seeing he is the top-scorer for Notts County. It is recalled that similar treatment was one of the reasons why Maw left and went to Leicester, and in less than twelve months has become a "reserve" for an England team.

PAY HERE.—A pretty little story and a true one comes from the Midlands. It tells how youngsters, aged only eight and six years, trudged six miles to see the club they "followed" play in a Cup-tie and win! But they started off without reckoning the cost-of admission. Barred from entering because they hadn't a penny between them, a kind Sam, sitting on learning the facts paid for them to go in and then saw them safely on a bus homewards when the great time was all over.

LEADING THE OCKLES.—Ted Birnie, in his quiet and unassuming way, often finds good young players. He has been doing this kind of things for years on behalf of Southern, and occasionally has to part with one of his developed youngsters at a price. This might happen in the case of McMahon, a clever little left-winger, from Mertonborough, whose form has been attracting a number of club scouts. Perhaps McMahon will be wearing the colours of a London club before long.

HE LIKES A CHANGE.—First Division (Northern), Third Division (Southern), Central League, Midland League, Free State League, Cheshire County League. No, we are not compiling a list of the principal competitions. This is just the little tour of Leagues made by Sidney Glidden, the inside-right, who has now added the North-Eastern League to his collection, having joined Blyth Spartans. Sidney, who is a brother of Tom Glidden, the West Bromwich forward, has played for Sunderland, West Bromwich, Halifax, Newport, Larnie and Wigan Athletic.

Burnley have thrown a feeler out respecting Archer, a well-drilled recruit in the half-back line of Everton's Central League army. Having parted with two inside forwards of rare value in Maw and Hall to Leicester and Tottenham, respectively, Notts County are now combing the highways and byways in search of capable substitutes.

SWAN'S WINGS CLIPPED.—Swansea are likely to be without the services of Sykes and Fred Jones for the remainder of the year. Their injuries are more serious than was at first anticipated, and Jones has had to undergo an operation.

INTERNATIONAL GOING CHEAP.—Any club requiring a well-built inside forward who gained an international cap as recently as last season might try Charlton regarding Jack Doherty, who cannot get a place in the Valley League team. He played for Ireland against both England and Wales last season and was thought to be a great capture when Charlton secured his signature, first as an amateur and later as a professional. It is unlikely that Charlton would stand in the player's light if a reasonable offer was made for Doherty's transfer.

Port Vale Strongly fancy G. Davies, Merthyr's left back. The Wolves would like one or two of Sunderland's players, particularly Thompson. Playing in a Gravesend League game, Milton Athletic scored with the first and last kicks and drew 2-2. Ashington, one of the private preserves of Newcastle, are expected

UPHILL FIGHT BY BLINKO

Fine Victory in S.G.C. Championship

Playing under weather conditions that were almost ideal, A. R. Blinko again won the Shanghai Golf Club championship cup last Sunday, by a score of two up and one to go, from N. A. Brown in the final of the "A" Class competition. The wind, which was stiff at times, and the extremely dry and hard course were hazards which added interest and excitement to an excellent contest.

Blinko's win was the result of a hard fought afternoon's battle on his part. When the morning cards were returned he was four down to Brown and his chances did not look too bright. Throughout the morning Brown was playing an easy game, driving, approaching and putting with a surety that augured well for his chances in the afternoon. The second, fourth, sixth, seventh, eleventh, fifteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth holes fell to him while six holes were halved. Blinko's drives and approach shots were good but he fell down constantly in his putting.

CRICKET

Army v. Navy

The following have been selected to represent the Army in the league cricket match against the Royal Navy, to be played at King's Park on Saturday next, 25th inst., commencing at 2 p.m.

Capt. Williams R.A. (Capt.), Lieut. Walker, R.E., Lieut. Garthwaite, R.A., Lieut. Waring, R.A., Capt. Mitchell, R.A., Major. Bone, R.A.M.C., Lieut. Butler M.C., Lieut. Williams, East Lancs, Sergt. Taylor, R.A.P.C., Private Barnaby, Lincoln, Sapper. Tucker, R.E.

Reserve:—Cpl. College, R.A.M.C. Umpire:—S. M. Jordan, R.E.

ing to lose H. Lennox, their centre-half, to their patron club. Do not be surprised to read during the next few days of the transfer of Tutin, Aldershot's young right-half.

Once they found out what a prolific corner for talent the North-East is, Chesterfield have lost no time in recruiting. Possibly their next capture will be Richardson, right-half, of Blyth Spartans.

H. J. Pearce, the eighteen-year-old goalkeeper, of Stafford Rangers reserves, can score from penalties as well as stop them. He has played in every game this season and has the makings of a first-class player.

ANOTHER TABRAM.—Bryn Tabram, the Port Vale centre-half, is attracting the attention of English clubs. Young Tabram, a half-back, plays for Cwm Athletic, the club from which the Port Vale centre-half graduated.

THEIR OWN MAKE.—Dartford reserves, who have won their last three games by an aggregate score of 14-2, include no fewer than six local amateurs in the side. They have nearly all been noted by the scouts, and the names of centre-forward Ewers and goalkeeper Denyer are entered in more than one pocket book.

The name of Marshall, one of Edinburgh Hibs' Bright lights is coupled with Preston.

David Collins, the outside-right, who is on Bradford's transfer list, has returned to Dumbarton.

H. V. Barrell, centre-forward of Clifton Church Institute (York), has, in four appearances, scored 18 goals. He is only seventeen.

Doncaster are hoping soon to welcome the return of Schofield, their ever-present full-back last season. He has been out of the game with a knee injury.

Prior, the Swindon Corinthian centre-forward, who has signed professional forms for Charlton, served his apprenticeship in the Great Western Railway works.

If Grimsby succeed in landing Charlie Faintless, the clever Denistown Parish goalkeeper, he should prove a veritable godsend to the sporting placard writers of the seaside town.

The Midland clubs are keeping an eye on Hood, who has scored 30 goals this season for the North Notts team. Biddsworth Welfare, Mansfield, had his assistance last campaign.

West Bromwich Albion's crushing defeat of Stoke was only their second victory over the "Potteries" at the Hawthorns in the last ten years, during which time they have met in both the first and second divisions.

For the second week in succession, Aston Villa had a representative watching Alex Buchanan, the Enfield back, who is a school teacher by profession. A deal may come off, providing young Alex's father, the former Thames manager, gives his consent.

TO-MORROW'S TRIANGULAR REGATTA

Full Details Of Teams And Prospects

CANTON START HOT FAVOURITES

After allowing regattas to lapse for ten years, the Victoria Recreation Club will be holding their annual regatta to-morrow at Kowloon Bay when a programme extending from 2.30 p.m. to 4.45 p.m. has been arranged. The Regatta will be in the form of a triangular rowing contest between the Victoria Recreation Club, the Royal Hong Kong Yacht Club and the Canton Rowing Club and judging from the keenness and enthusiasm displayed everywhere, the sports to-morrow afternoon promises to be an unqualified success.

There are eight events on the programme and below are given the entries and some notes as to the respective prospects of the different teams.

VISITORS FANCIED FOR SENIORS

Before discussing the prospects however, it would not be out of place to mention that Canton are generally looked upon as the favourites for the honours. The Canton boats arrived by the a.s. Kinsman yesterday and caused much admiration when placed in the V.R.C. boathouse. They have shipped down two fours and two twos. They have a fairly heavy four-oar, but also a very light one made by Messrs. Sims & Sons, of Putney. The light boat was the one which everybody admired and if the sea is smooth on Saturday, Canton's boat will have much to do with the result. Canton are sending down eight oarsmen.

JUNIOR FOURS.

The first event is the Junior Fours, the teams for which are as follows:

Yacht Club:—F. J. Bond, J. Edkins, B. L. E. Hebert, P. Ramus (stroke) and T. Shields (cox).

V.R.C.:—L. A. Barros, H. J. Silva, M. M. V. Soares, J. R. Soares (stroke) and F. X. D'Almada (cox).

Canton:—Dr. Sanner, I. Stirling, F. Busse, W. Cameron (stroke) and W. Seiffert (cox).

The Yacht Club are expected to win the junior fours, owing to the fact that they have as their No. 3 and stroke, Hebert, and Ramus, who had done so well at the opening cruise of the Royal Hongkong Yacht Club. However, the V.R.C. are looking forward to give them a close race and in this connection, the Canton junior fours can fully be expected to extend the home teams, since rowing is of such a high standard in Canton.

SENIOR FOURS.

The teams for the senior fours are as follows:

Yacht Club:—G. S. P. Heywood, C. B. Easterbrook, K. Knudsen, H. W. Dully (stroke) and I. G. Allison (cox).

V.R.C.:—J. A. V. Soares, L. A. V. Soares, S. A. Marcal, J. M. M. Alves (stroke) and F. X. D'Almada (cox).

Canton:—E. Huttmeier, F. Tremlett, B. Rasmussen, I. Wylie (stroke) and W. Seiffert (cox).

The Canton Club is fancied for this event since very good reports have filtered through to Hongkong of I. Wylie's stroke, who is reported to have rowed for some University at home. Rasmussen was the stroke last year when they won this event and he is now rowing No. 3, so that it would appear as though Wylie is looked upon as a very good man.

Without in any way attempting to make a bold forecast, the V.R.C. crew named above have shown such good work in their tryouts, that it can confidently be expected that they could give the Yacht Club a good run. The Yacht Club's team are no weaklings, but candidly, they appear to be up against it.

JUNIOR PAIRS.

The teams for the junior pairs are as follows:

V.R.C.:—L. A. Barros, H. J. Silva (stroke) and G. Agabeg (cox).

Canton:—F. Busse, W. Cameron (stroke) and W. Seiffert (cox).

Yacht Club:—B. L. E. Hebert, P. Ramus (stroke) and T. Shields (cox).

The Yacht Club should win this race unless something unexpected happens to their boat since their representative have beaten experienced men before. They enjoy an advantage in weight. There is not likely to be much opposition from the V.R.C. though one cannot say that Cameron and Busse will do as they are a heavy pair.

CYCLONEDAMAGE IN TAMPICO

Large Sum For Reclamation Work

A letter received from Mexico yesterday by Mr. Lacayo, Consul Honorary de Mexico brought further details of the damage done to Tampico by the great cyclone which swept the territory a few weeks ago. The cyclone was followed by a rainstorm which caused two large rivers to overflow their banks and inundate the greater portion of the town. The recent report states that the Mexican president has flown over the stricken area on a tour of inspection and has authorized the expenditure of ten million dollars gold for reclamation work. This project will include the strengthening of river banks and the construction of flood dams. The President, on his return to Mexico City, announced that he was highly pleased from the manner in which the Federal troops had rendered assistance in bringing order out of the chaos which reigned in this stricken area.

General Anselmo Macías Valenzuela, Commander of the second military zone and president of a special committee formed to care for the sufferers, is believed to have rendered assistance, both personally and through his forces, to some sixty-thousand people, all of whom were rendered destitute and homeless, and to have distributed $231,150 gold among the unfortunate. This sum was contributed by public donation, the Spanish Colony, alone, in Mexico City giving twenty thousand dollars.

American Help.

First reports from Tampico stated that the cyclone was sweeping over the whole of the country, but it has now been confirmed that the northern part remains absolutely unscathed and that the cotton crop in this region, for which great fear was held, will be one of the largest for many years, having a value of some six million gold dollars.

Much gratitude is felt by all the Mexican people throughout the entire territory for the assistance rendered the homeless and injured by the American Red Cross and although the storm in itself was a terrible tragedy, the one bright ray that appears is that it has helped to strengthen the bonds of friendship between Mexico and her neighbours.

DRIFTWOOD

By the Beachcomber

The President Coolidge arrived yesterday morning after making what is claimed to be a record trip from San Francisco. She docked here three days ahead of schedule, having left Frisco on November 3. The "Coolidge" is expected to arrive in Manila five days prior to her regular time. On her return trip to America she will call at Los Angeles, this being the first time she will make this port on her run and it is expected she will embark and disembark passengers there regularly in the future.

RETURNING HOME

Among the passengers who arrived in the Colony yesterday morning was Mr. O'Neil Gordon, operating manager of the Secony Vacuum Corporation who returns after six months holiday in the United States. Mr. J. S. Hummel, general foreign sales manager of Warner Bros Pictures also disembarked. He is here on a business trip.

Capt. George Anderson, senior partner in the firm of Anderson and Ashe, Marine surveyors, accompanied by his wife, returns after spending a holiday in Denmark.

HONG KONG MARY

It is the hard rocks a man gets that tests his sole and one of the greatest boons to the footwearers' stewards is Hongkong Mary. A dear old, bald-headed, coolie woman, known from Manila to San Francisco as the queen of silk hose makers. It is more than a treat to listen to her sales talk as she pleads with a prospective customer and rumour has it that she knows every officer and every ship that makes Hongkong a regular port of call.

TRICKSTER AT WORK

Victimising The "Country Cousin"

For obtaining money by trick a Chinese fortune teller was fined $50 by Mr. Balfour yesterday.

Sub-Inspector Elston who prosecuted the defendant was a fortune teller who specialised on "country-bumpkins." He used loaded dice which showed No. 6 all the time and would tell his victims that if they could throw the same number three times, the gods would have a message for them on further payment. This together with other tricks whereby people were cheated, were explained to his Workshop, who then imposed the fine stated.

AMERICAN FOOTBALL

South China Prepares
For Sunday's Game

Bill Butt's South China Athletic club squad this afternoon went through their final big work-out in preparation for Sunday's American Football game at 10.30 at Soldier's Field.

Sunday's game against the team from the United States ship Mindanao will herald the opening of the initial season of football in Hongkong and from the interest being taken this sport should gain a permanent place here.

Although the Navy men will outweigh the locals by a heavy margin, it is expected that the superior team work of the South China aggregation will more than enable them to hold their own. At yesterday's workout, the club team looked like a miniature edition of the famous Trojans and the Jones system of power and caption seems to suit their natural characteristics admirably.

Lead by the 112 pound quarter back, Eddy Chang, the S.C.A.C. attack is built around Timmy Leong who is one of the spariest little players any coach could wish for. He kicks, carries and passes the ball like an old-timer. As this type of play needs a defence, the work of Taft Fong and Kenny Pang cannot be ignored.

Although the Navy line-up is not known yet, the local coach states that he will probably open the attack with the following:

ANGLO-IRISH DISPUTE

Mediation Efforts Turned Down by Mr. de Valera

Dublin, November 19.
The efforts recently made in the Irish Free State to end the economic dispute with Britain have been turned down by Mr. Eamonn de Valera, according to the special correspondent of the "Cork Examiner."

Cardinal MacCarthy, the Primate of all Ireland, some days ago agreed to preside at the Free State all-party conference to explore the position prior to the reopening of negotiations with Britain. There was general agreement with the idea of holding such a meeting, but Mr. de Valera and the Government stood out—Resister.

THREE KILLED IN TRAIN SMASH

Berlin, Nov. 18.
Three workmen were killed and several were injured when the Berlin-Paris express crashed into a workmen's train at Bowitz, near Stendal, this morning.

The engine and luggage van were derailed and a few passengers were slightly injured. Traffic was delayed for five hours—Reuters.

LONDON WEEKLY'S ARTICLE

Dr. Goebbels Declares "Signed"
Contribution A Forgery

Berlin, Nov. 18.
As already reported by Trans-Oceans, an article appeared in the London weekly "Saturday Review" under the name of the German Propaganda Minister Dr. Goebbels, entitled "Germany's Aims: Germany demands more Territories." Dr. Goebbels immediately telegraphed to "Saturday Review" declaring that this article was a malicious forgery as he had never at any time, either for "Saturday Review" or for any other publication, written an article of this nature.

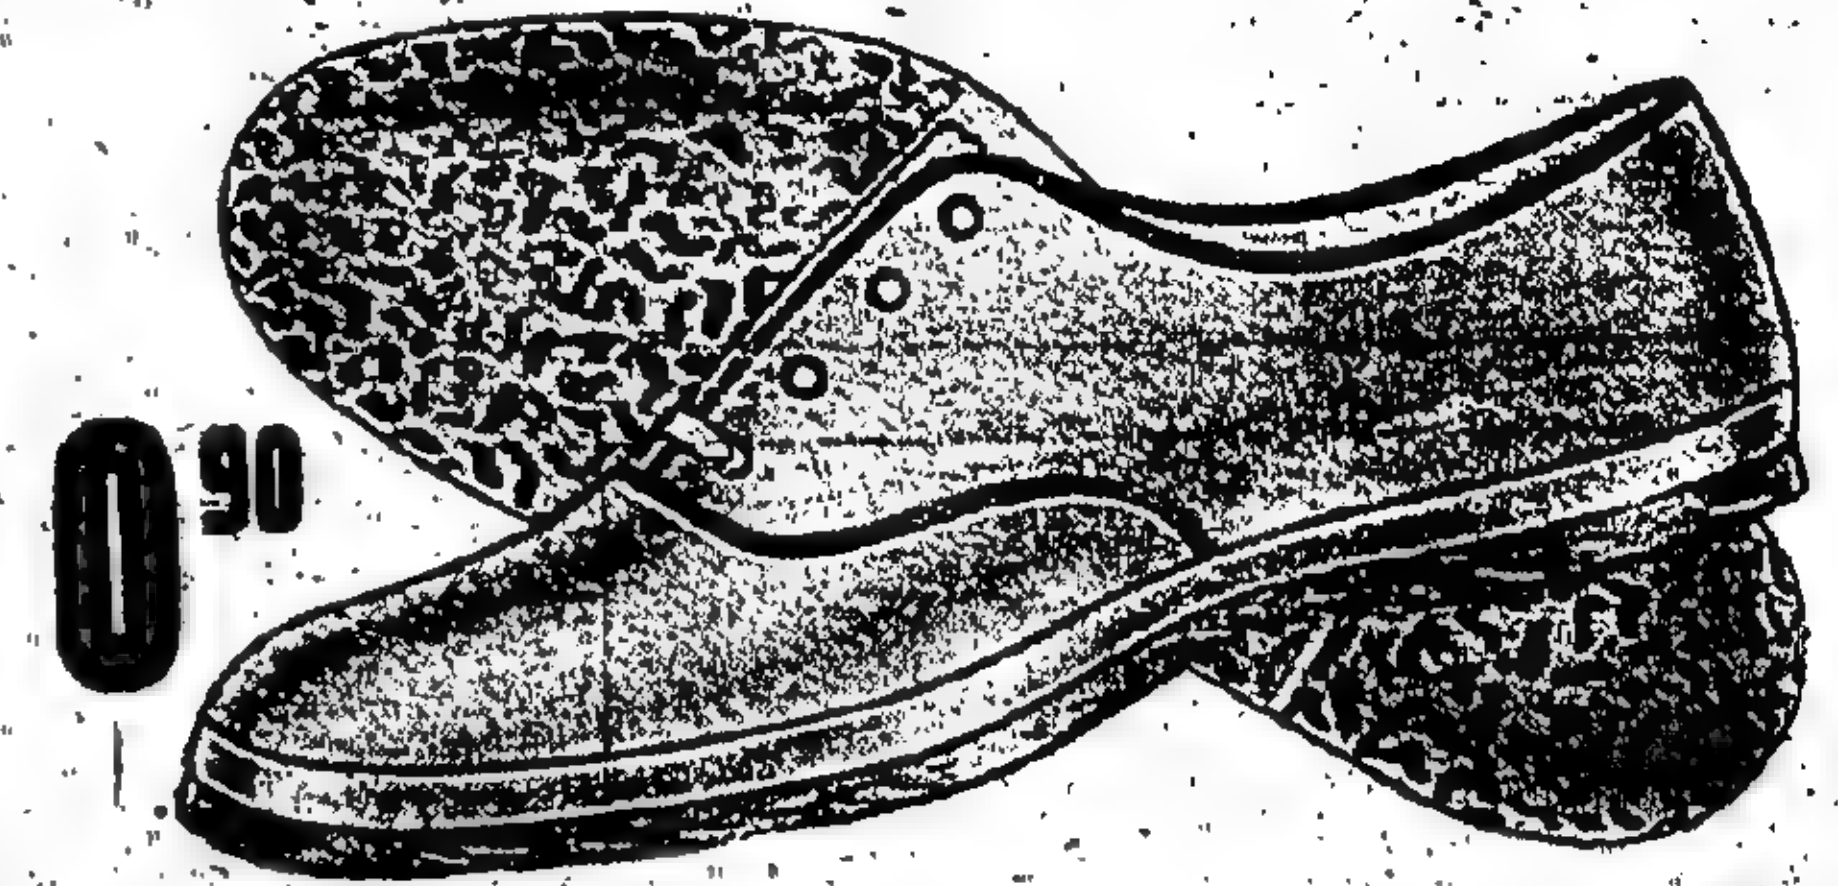

The Minister asked the weekly in fairness to hold up the issue of this number, or, if that was impossible, at least to inform the British public that the paper had received Dr. Goebbels' denial of authorship.—Transocean Kuomin.

ST. ANDREW'S LOSE TO BORDERERS

St. Andrew's Club met the South Wales Borderers in a friendly hockey match on the Marina ground last evening but they found the soldiers too strong for them and were beaten by 3 goals to 1. Play was rather on the fast side and the Saints put up a better show than the score would lead one to believe.

LINKING UP NEW RESERVOIR

Addition to Shanghai
Water Facilities

Work which is now busily proceeding at the Koukaza Park will by the close of the coming winter have achieved its object of providing an important link between source and distribution in the water supply of the French Concession.

Gangs of digging coolies, horries unloading huge sections of main, and engineers superintending the laying of the pipe in deep trenches with concrete retaining walls have been everyday sights recently in the French Park not far from the entrance at the corner of Rue Lafayette and Rue Vovron. Actually the greater part of the enterprise has already been completed; in the form of a subterranean reservoir divided into four basins, and having a total capacity of 30,000 cubic metres, which will assure the Concession of having at all times at least a temporary supply of water within its own boundaries.

Water will be taken, as usual, direct from the Tongkadoo pumping station, which is in Chinese territory; and in connection with the new reservoir a sub-pumping station is in course of construction beneath the surface of Rue Lafayette, from which the water will flow out under pressure for distribution. Distributors are being laid in at a depth of eight and half metres below street level, this being the maximum depth practicable in Shanghai soil. Two siphons will assist in linking up the sub-station with reservoir basins, which are six and a half metres underground.

Though the mounds of raw earth which now meet the eye may come as something of a shock to those who have not visited the park for some time, the method of subterranean disposal will eventually leave free the entire grass space of the park for public access. Care has also been taken to interfere as little as possible with the general enjoyment of the resort during the months of the year when it is most popular, explained an official of the Compagnie Francaise de Tramways et d'Eclairage Electriques de Shanghai to a "North-China Daily News" representative. The reservoir basins were installed during the winter of 1932-33, and it is expected to finish the sub-station and the connecting conduits before next spring. The company hopes to have the system in full service by April, 1934.

A DIRT TRACK FOR KOWLOON

Where Taxi Drivers May Race To Their Hearts' Content

(By Our Special Correspondent)

This is a speed mad age. Every day records are being broken on land, at sea and in the air. The natural tendency of human beings is to keep up with their machines and move faster. Rate of travel for cars is limited and as a direct consequence the general public suffer from an insatiable craving for speed. Watch the average motorist. Where there is a policeman travels according to the law, but, once let him get where the stern eye of the traffic department is not upon him and he will nine times out of ten apply the gas and almost double his mileage rate.

Why not give those who want to race an opportunity by building a dirt track in Kowloon? The cost of construction would not be very heavy and, enough profit could be made from it to more than pay expenses. For instance, at fixed dates, proper race meetings could be held at which some of these Chinese Taxi drivers who seem so anxious to run over a few harmless pedestrians could be given a golden opportunity to break their own necks and at the same time furnish the populace with a unique thrill. Purse could be arranged and an entrance fee charged for competitors, while spectators could be sold tickets and given an opportunity to select winners in the same way as a horse race. There could also be competitions held for gentlemen drivers and classifications could be made for various types of cars, with handicaps arranged by a selected group of mechanics and motor dealers.

Motor cycle races could also be held and the track would be an ideal place for endurance runs of all types. Anyone wishing to obtain a thrill, could at any time the ground was free be charged a nominal sum and allowed to take his own private car out and put it through its paces.

The proposed race track could not only be used for the already mentioned purposes but might also be so constructed that the centre of the oval could be used as a sports ground, where cricket, football, rugby, people to sit and watch the various contests, and perhaps an annual track and field day could be held, from which sports representatives could be selected to meet the best athletics from Malay, Manila and Shanghai in the Far Eastern Championships. The ground might also be used as a landing place for aeroplanes and a few sheds could be built at one end to house them. This would do much towards encouraging the private ownership of planes and general flying in the Colony, and, with the present cheap prices being asked for small Moths a surprisingly large number of people might take advantage of such a field. The racing might entail danger, but, if such a scheme were put into operation, the chances are nine to one that the sporting blood of the people of the Colony would come to the fore and not only support it but make it one of the best paying propositions ever started in Kowloon.

GRUESOME FIND IN KOWLOON

Young Chinese Girl Murdered

The body of the pretty young girl of about 19 years of age was found in an isolated area at the junction of Boundary Road and Sai Yeung Choi Street, Shamshuipo yesterday morning. Except for a short piece of undergarment which was disarranged the body was in a nude state, and a piece of cloth around the neck indicated that she had been strangled. The ground in the vicinity was in great disorder, indicating that a severe struggle must have taken place, and the condition of the body strengthened the theory that the murder was committed only a few hours before the discovery.

The girl was smartly dressed, wearing high heeled European shoes and stockings, and the Police are hoping for an early identification which no doubt would throw further light on the murder.

With the exception of the pair of shoes and stockings, the clothes worn by the unfortunate girl are missing, and the piece of cloth by which she was strangled is thought to have been torn off the missing jacket.

The body was found by market gardeners from Kowloon Tong at 7 o'clock hidden from observation from the roadway.

BODY IDENTIFIED.
Inquiries made at a late hour last night elicited the news that the body has since been recognised as that of Leung Sam Mai, a tea-shop waitress, her home address being given as 187, Yi Chan Street, 1st floor.

When she was last seen alive, the girl was in a bus bound for Nathan Road from Prince Edward Road, and that was when she was returning home from work at about 11

YESTERDAY'S OFFICIAL QUOTATIONS

Some of the investment issues, which had recently been under pressure, made a better showing to-day, Dairy Farms, Trams and China Lights being in steady request at a slight advance; perhaps intending investors are being attracted by the low level of prices now reached. In the rest of the list, there is not much change to be noted, except that Cement improved to $14 buyers.
